A very early Anglo Malay mansion in Kajang.

Was once the Overseas Chinese High School. Demolished to make way for New Era University College.

Why la need to demolish everything. Couldn't save even a part of it meh?

Would have made a kickass Department of Chinese Language and Literature building. Tan Lark Sye would look great in front of it.

The current design of New Era looks so bland and uninspiring weih. Was so shocked the first time I visited

What are the commercial values of history or old building?

People expectations are cheap entries to museums, free space for Instagram photos or bed&breakfast at a decrepit haunted house.

It needs to bring in money 💰, otherwise it has to make way for money
