While walking back to Kajang Heritage Centre from Kedai Buku MakAli, took a photo of the narrow five-foot way linking old shophouses along Jalan Tengah. The row of relatively smaller shops are supposed to be the earliest brick shophouses in Kajang Town. History record says that the first batch of brick shops were built in 1895. The road was named Jalan Raja Alang in honor of a Mandailing Chief. But, it was renamed Jalan Tengah or Middle Road. At the end of the road linking to Jalan Tukang is a century old shop named Kah Chong. The exposed bricks on the weathered wall seems to exhibit the history of Kajang Town.

加影中街或之前命名为拉惹阿朗街据悉是加影市镇最早的街道。其五脚基走廊和街道狭窄，屋身短小，还保留部分原来样貌。根据史书记载，英殖民地政府于1895年，资助和鼓励兴建砖瓦店屋。中街转入杜更街的角落，是以前加影著名售卖大包和月饼的嘉昌。其剥脱的老墙，石灰粉漆，似乎在陈述着老街的故事。

I am glad I can looked back and reminisced I have live at Main Street Kajang town during my childhood years. Running along the center of road, front of the wooden police station. Bullock carts passing by. And hawkers on their push carts and some even on a gandar (wooden pole). We know our neighbours and life was so carefree. Playing with whatever we can get our hands on. Such was life in Kajang town. Now we have a leading developer building a new township based on greed. No proper planning whatsoever. One just need to look at our streets and roads.

True meng ho. Because of a greed public listed developer, Kajang town has been developed without proper planning making it upside down plus terrible traffic problem. Meng ho I am 1 year your junior and also borned, live and grow up at Main Street (Jalan Besar now)

Why in the world would they want to rename the road from raja alang, to jalan tengah? It takes a whole council to do that.
