Most of its early members were British, the founding members include H.C. Syers, the Superintendent of Selangor State; A.R. Venning, Treasurer of Selangor and head of the Sanitation Board (who also created the Lake Gardens); A. C. Norman who designed some early buildings of Kuala Lumpur; and H.F. Bellamy who headed the Selangor Public Works Department."* (Wikipedia).

Peninggalan

"Jalan Bellamy, in the heart of Kuala Lumpur, has been the home of Alice Smith's Primary School campus since 1952. ... It is actually one of the better preserved streets in KL, with a number of old colonial bungalows still in use and lined by massive mature trees. ... It is a short road (about 700 m long - it may have been truncated when the Jalan Istana highway was constructed) and it was named after H.F. Bellamy who was a civil engineer and director of the Public Works Department in the late nineteenth century."
